To whom it may concern:

Last year Mr. King came on board with the Renaissance Program as a Drama Teacher/Coach as well as the Director of the school play. He quickly established himself as one of the children's favorite teachers. In the final stages of the school production, (Grease... the musical) Donovan had the difficulty of integrate the younger children (grades 1 and 2) with the older grades, (3-6) which is not an easy task in theater. The play was a huge success, with three sold out performances to show for it!

Donovan also created a "Video Drama" program for our after school curriculum. Donovan engineered his students toward the making of a movie and television show. The children learned first hand of what it takes to script, direct, add sound tracks, produce and film a full-scale video or movie in its entirety. He then gave a copy of the final edited version to each child at the end of the program to the show fruits of their creativity.

Donovan's talents did not stop there. He also developed and taught many other programs for the Renaissance Program. The Game Show, Improvisation, Hollywood Monster Mask Making and Introduction to Basketball. No matter what the task at hand, Donovan would always come prepared with unique set of ideas and creativity.

As a business owner of an entertainment company, I've hired Donovan as an actor and entertainer as well. For the last 4 years, at an annual Halloween Gala, Donovan has preformed the character "Lurch" from the Adams family brilliantly. He even one an award for his portrayal.

Mr. King has also been called upon as an "Events Coordinator for several events of mine, adding his usual flare and creativity. His responsibilities ranged from setting up the event, organizing the creative talent, creating theme concepts and implementing them throughout the day or evenings activities, interacting with clients, managing the on-site workers and overseeing the breakdown at the end of the event.

It is with great certainty that whomever receives any creative services from Mr. King will be pleased and satisfied with the end result. We hope to continue our working relationship as well as our friendship with Mr. King for many years to come.

Sincerely,
